What to do when your client speaks two languages: Assessment and treatment strategies for the monolingual SLP

~ Kerry Ebert, Ph.D., CCC-SLP

The number of children in the United States who speak a language other than English at home is rapidly growing, and speech-language pathologists need tools to meet the needs of these children. Kerry Danahy Ebert, PhD, CCC-SLP will present practical strategies for providing language assessment and treatment services to preschool and early school-age children who speak at least one language that the provider does not. Tools for accurate identification of language disorders as well as for other assessment purposes will be described. Strategies for maximizing support of a home language during treatment will be presented, along with relevant evidence of treatment efficacy in dual language learners. Participants will have an opportunity to apply strategies to case studies.
