The LEaD Series is designed to bring criminal justice leaders and other professionals working in law enforcement, corrections, courts, private sector security and other support activities to speak about their careers and professional activities. Our speakers will provide you with an inside glimpse into your future LEADERSHIP, EDUCATION and DEVELOPMENT (LEaD) that are required in the criminal justice field, you are thinking about entering. This is your opportunity to discover the leadership qualities they’ve developed and the education required to create excellence in the private and public sector criminal justice field. The same challenges and qualities you will require, as future leaders, in your chosen criminal justice profession.

Our speakers are graduates of Southeastern who will speak about their own SLU educational experience and studies, how they selected criminal justice as a profession, and how they developed their particular interest and specialties.

In 1997, shortly after graduating from Southeastern Louisiana University, Inspector Michael Morse entered the United States Air Force as a commissioned officer. He initially worked as an intelligence officer for about three years conducting counterdrug and counterterrorism missions in Central and South America while living in Panama. After that, he worked as a special agent with the Air Force Office of Special Investigations for about five years conducting various federal criminal and counterintelligence investigations while living in Virginia and Montana.

In 2004, Michael separated from the Air Force and worked as a special agent with the United States Department of Veterans Affairs, Office of Inspector General, for about 10 years conducting various federal criminal investigations while living in Louisiana, Mississippi, and Nevada. In 2014, Michael transferred from the Department of Veterans Affairs and currently works as a postal inspector with the United States Postal Inspection Service conducting various federal criminal investigations while living in Louisiana. Meet with Inspector Morse and discover the opportunities available in the U. S. Postal Inspectors.
