

Student Awards 2012 - 2013

- » Chrissy Carter, an anchor-reporter for the award-winning student newscast of the Southeastern Channel's "Northshore News," won the 2013 student Emmy for "On-Camera Performance."
- » Suraj K. Ayer, a sophomore majoring in chemistry, won the third prize in Organic Chemistry at the Southwest Regional Meeting of the American Chemical Society in Baton Rouge, where he presented his research work.
- » A team of Southeastern Louisiana University communication students took first place in a statewide competition to produce a 30-second public service announcement encouraging citizens to register to vote.
- » The Alpha Psi chapter of the Phi Mu Fraternity at Southeastern Louisiana University received the Carnation Cup, given to the organization's top chapter.
- » For the fifth year in a row, Southeastern's Epsilon Phi Chapter of Delta Tau Delta was awarded the Hugh Shields Flag, a designation given to the top 10 chapters of the national fraternity.
- » Eight Southeastern Louisiana University students received Gold Circle Awards from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association for their work on the university's 2012 yearbook, "Le Souvenir."