Introduction

The first Strategic Priority for Southeastern is “To provide competitive educational opportunities that attract diverse well-prepared students who progress and graduate.” In order to better understand the reasons why students leave Southeastern before graduating, Institutional Research & Assessment contracted with the Southeastern Social Science Research Center to conducted the Non-Returning Student Survey, a phone survey of Fall 2010 cohort students who were not enrolled in Fall 2011. Students who had been suspended were excluded from the sample. This report details the results of the Non-Returning Student Survey.
Method

Participants

The population for this study were the 562 students of the Fall 2010 cohort who were not enrolled in Fall 2011 and had not been suspended. After repeated attempts, 270 students remained unreachable by the available phone numbers, 176 refused to be part of the survey, and 116 surveys were completed, for a response rate of 40%. Table 1 provides a demographic comparison of the population and the sample.

Procedure

The Office of Institutional Research & Assessment contracted with the Southeastern Social Science Research Center to conducted the Non-Returning Student Survey. The survey was administered by phone, using trained and experienced student interviewers.

Instrument

The survey first asked a series of questions to determine if students planned on returning to Southeastern in the future, and if they had intended to obtain a degree when they began at Southeastern. Respondents who indicated they did not plan on returning to Southeastern were given a list of possible reasons why a student might leave college, and were asked to rate whether it was a major reason, a minor reason, or not a reason at all in their decision to leave Southeastern. Students who indicated that they did plan to continue their education at Southeastern were first asked when they planned to return to Southeastern. They were then given a list of possible reasons why a student might stop attending Southeastern for a while, and were asked to rate whether each item was a major reason, a minor reason, or not a reason at all in their decision to “stop-out.” The final section asked for demographic information that is not collected as a part of the application or registration process, such as the number of children a student has and how far they have to travel to campus. The entire survey can be found in Appendix A.
Results

The first set of questions was to determine whether students were: 1) Drop-Outs, those students who no longer plan to continue their education at Southeastern, including those who plan on or have transferred elsewhere; 2) Stop-outs, those students who plan to return to Southeastern at some point. Based on these definitions, 60% (n=70) of the respondents are Drop-Outs and 40% (n=46) are Stop-outs.

Stop Outs

The majority of the Stop-outs (41%, n=19) planned on returning to Southeastern in Spring 2012, while 24% (n=11) planned on returning to Southeastern within the next year. Nine percent (9%, n=4) plan on returning within the next two years, and 20% (n=9) are not sure when they will reenroll.

Next, Stop-outs were asked to indicate whether each of nine possible reasons was a Major Reason, a Minor Reason, or Not a Reason for their decision to stop attending Southeastern for a while. “Need to earn more money” was the item with the largest endorsement, with 70% of respondents indicating it was a reason they stopped attending Southeastern. This was followed by “Had family responsibilities to take care of” which 67% of respondents indicated was a reason they stopped attending.

Table 1 provides the percentage of endorsement for Major Reason, Minor Reason, and Not a Reason for each item.

Drop Outs

Most of the Drop-outs (83%) intend to finish their education elsewhere, and 6% of the Drop-outs had already enrolled in another school. When asked what school they have or will enroll in, the most commonly cited school was Delgado. Table 7 provides the schools students identified as having enrolled in or planning to enroll in.

Respondents were then asked what was the main reason they decided to attend another school. Thirty-eight percent (38%) said they decided to attend another school because it is closer to home. Twenty-four percent (24%) of the respondents indicated Southeastern did not have the major in which they were interested. An additional 14% transferred because of financial reasons. All the responses can be found in Appendix B.

Next, Drop-outs were asked to indicate whether each of thirty-eight possible reasons was a Major Reason, a Minor Reason, or Not a Reason for their decision to leave Southeastern. “Decided to attend a different college” was the item with the largest endorsement, with 72.9% of respondents indicating it was a reason they left Southeastern. This was followed by “Moved to a new location” (41.4%) and “The cost of gas was too high to commute” (41.4%).

Difficult Course(s)

Students were asked if they had problems with any particular course. Twenty-four respondents (21%) identified a particular course or courses with which they had problems. Math was the most commonly cited course, with 15 respondents (63%) indicating a particular math course or just math in general. The next most commonly cited type of course was biology (4 respondents - 17%), followed by English (3 respondents - 13%). All courses and any comments made about them can be found in Appendix C.

Demographics of Drop-Outs and Stop-Outs

The last portion of the survey asked participants for demographic information that is not readily available as part of the student record system. Answers to these questions help give a better understanding as to what type of student will leave Southeastern either temporarily or permanently. The vast majority of students (83%) have never been married, and do not have children (76%). Almost a fourth (23%) of the respondents traveled more than 30 miles (one way) to Southeastern’s main campus, while another 23% lived on campus. Over half (52%) of the respondents worked off campus. An additional 4% worked on campus. Eighteen percent (18%) of those who worked, spent more than 30 hours a week working, with an additional 44% spending 21-30 hours a week working. Thirty percent (30%) of the respondents are first-generation college students, which according to Terenzini et al (1996) is a student who has no parent with any college or university experience.

Non-Returning Student Survey
Hello, my name is ______________ and I am calling from the Southeastern Louisiana University. To better serve our students, we are conducting a confidential and voluntary survey of former Southeastern students who are not enrolled here this semester. The survey will take only a few minutes. Keep in mind that all answers are strictly confidential. Your participation is voluntary. You may stop at any time without penalty, and if you wish not to answer a particular question, please say so. For quality control, your call may be monitored. All questions pertaining to this survey should be addressed to Dr. Michelle Hall. My supervisor may call once our interview is completed to insure that I am conducting it properly.

Intro questions

1. Do you plan to continue your education?
   If no, go to Non-Returning
