Requirements for Degree

Core Requirements | Electives | Concentrations

Purposes

The purposes of the Department of Communication are to:

1. To prepare students for the modern workplace or doctoral study.
2. To provide training in communication theory and skills.
3. To acquaint students with the latest communication technologies.
4. To provide students with training in interpersonal communication skills.
5. To provide students with knowledge about how communication works within an organizational context.

The Master of Arts in Organizational Communication with concentrations in health communication, management, marketing and general business is designed to give communications students insights into communication problems and issues as they exist in those organizational settings and provide the knowledge, skills and tools to allow such to be addressed.

Master of Arts (M.A.) Organizational Communication Admission Requirements

In addition to meeting all University requirements for admission into Graduate School, students must meet the following Department regulations:

Regular Admission

1. GRE general test score of 800 minimum (Verbal & Quantitative).
2. Minimum cumulative undergraduate grade point average of 3.0.
3. Bachelor's Degree in Communication or approved related field (see prerequisites below) from an accredited college or university.
4. Three letters of recommendation.
5. Approval of Department Head and Graduate Coordinator.

Conditional Admission

1. GRE general test score of 700 minimum (Verbal & Quantitative).
2. Minimum cumulative undergraduate grade point average of 2.5.
3. Bachelor's degree in Communication or approved related field from an accredited college or university.
4. Three letters of recommendation.
5. Approval of Department Head and Graduate Coordinator. work must be completed prior to enrollment in any CSD course.

Requirements for Degree

The Master of Organizational Communication is a non-thesis degree, requiring a total of 36 semester hours of graduate credit. Twenty-four hours are to be taken in the Department of Communication, and twelve hours are to be taken from courses in other departments as indicated below. The variety of courses included will allow the student to focus on a single area of interest. On the other hand, some students might wish to take a more general approach, spreading the electives over several areas.

As an additional requirement for graduation, each student must pass a written comprehensive examination, which will serve as a capstone experience. Successful completion of the exam will require that the student pull together in a meaningful way the major theories, knowledge base, technologies, and practices covered in the required courses. A committee of three graduate faculty members will determine whether the student passes or fails the exam. The exam may not be taken more than twice.
