This part of the paper tells the story of the project. It should include information about the basic purpose of the report, relevant questions asked, and information gathered for the research. The length of the paper may vary depending on the type of project, but it should be of adequate length to appropriately cover the topic.

Information about Endnotes/Footnotes ONLY FOR DIVISION III 9th-12th Grade:

Footnotes/Endnotes

Any information (including oral interview information) directly cited in the report or paraphrased should be properly indicated in the body of the research paper. Footnotes/endnotes are required in Division III research papers.

4th-8th graders do not have to include footnotes/endnotes in their paper!

Conclusion

The general ideas the student discovered or learned from doing the project should be concisely described in this section.

Bibliography

List all books, articles, and other sources, included interviews, which are used in the report. Any of the standard bibliographic or reference style such as the American Psychological Association, Turabian, University of Chicago, Modern Language Association, etc. may be used.
